

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

Certificate of Achievement

The Administrative Assistant program provides advanced-level training for persons presently employed or seeking employment in administrative support or clerical positions. Administrative Assistants work with executives, taking over many of their routine tasks. These tasks may include clerical duties, including typing, training others to follow procedures, administering contracts, screening and interviewing job applicants, orienting new employees, planning training programs, representing the department at meetings, or maintaining and procuring office supplies. Administrative Assistants may also supervise staff.

Important: To obtain the Certificate of Achievement in Administrative Assistant, students must complete the following requirements with a minimum grade point average (GPA) of 2.0:

- The Administrative Assistant certificate requirements below.
